

KUADRIGA

Orchestrating Successful Distributed Teams

Nataliya Stoyanovych

Kuadriga

Copenhagen, 17 Nov 2011

Key steps to start

- Formulate your model of cooperation
- Think about development processes
- Prepare your organization
- Listen to experience of others

Ways to cooperate

Outsourcing

Tactical

Quick fix

Task solving

Far away

Distributed Team

Strategic

Long-term solutions

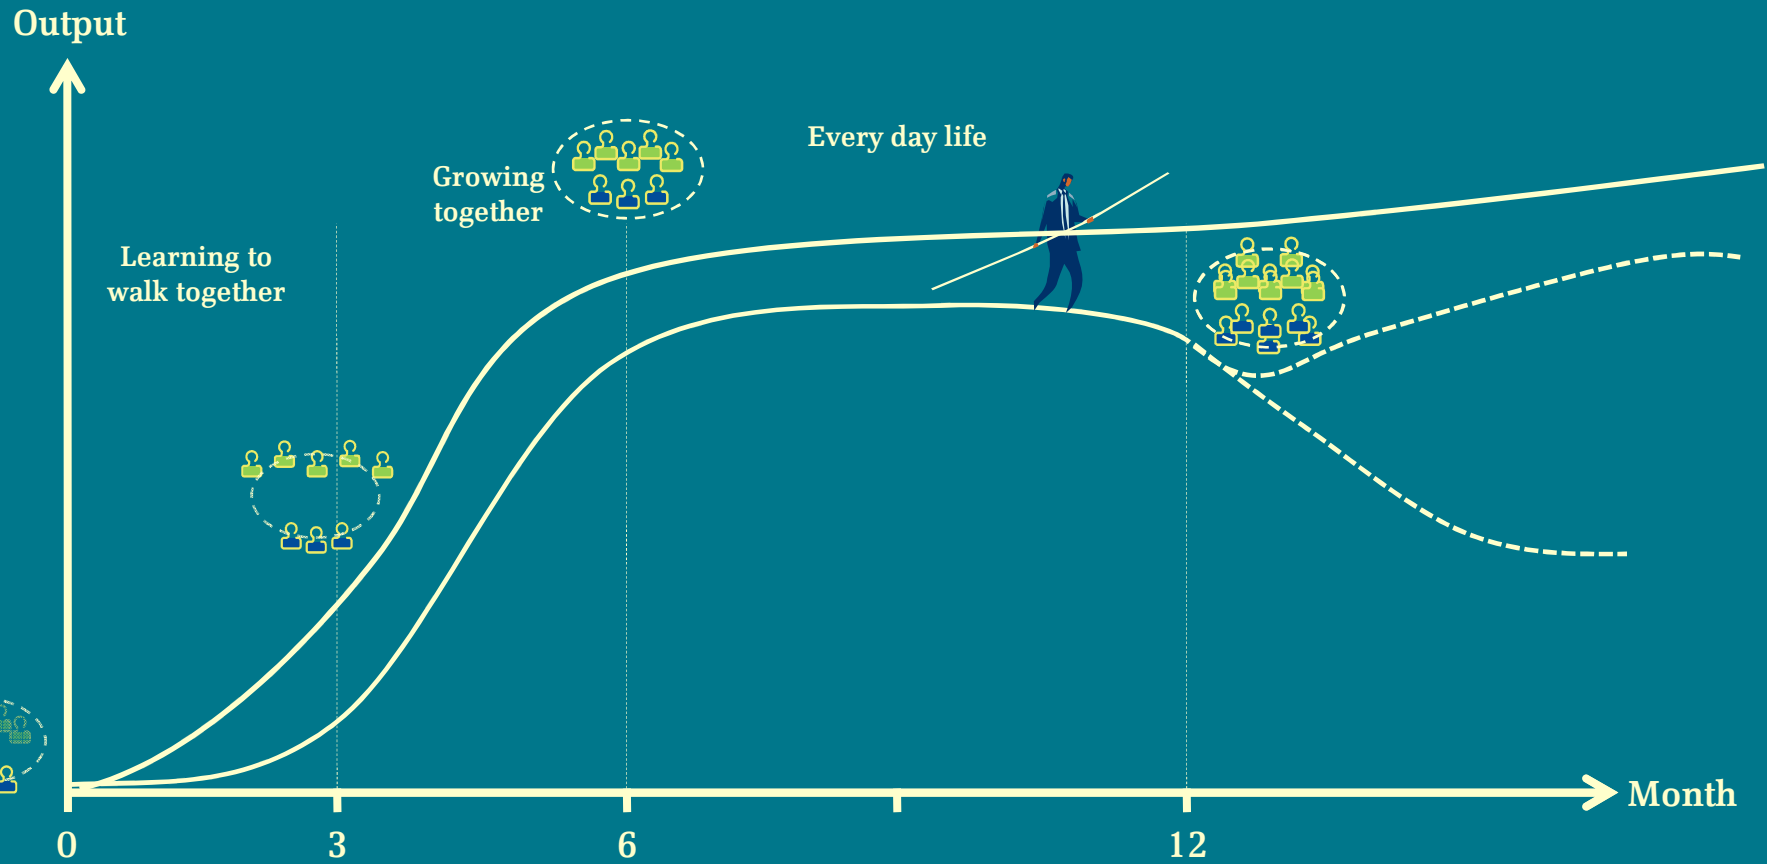

Problem solving

Near-by

Team Life Cycle

Gathering experience

Exit this survey

Working in a Distributed team

1. Client Company

2. Do you feel close to your team with Kuadriga?

- Always
- Mostly
- Not really
- Never

3. Is a backlog of tasks maintained and regularly prioritized?

- Yes, always
- Mostly
- Rarely
- No

4. For how long do you feel comfortable to let your team work without close communication with you?

- A day
- A week
- Two weeks
- A month

5. Have you improved the functionality of your product based on proposals from your team?

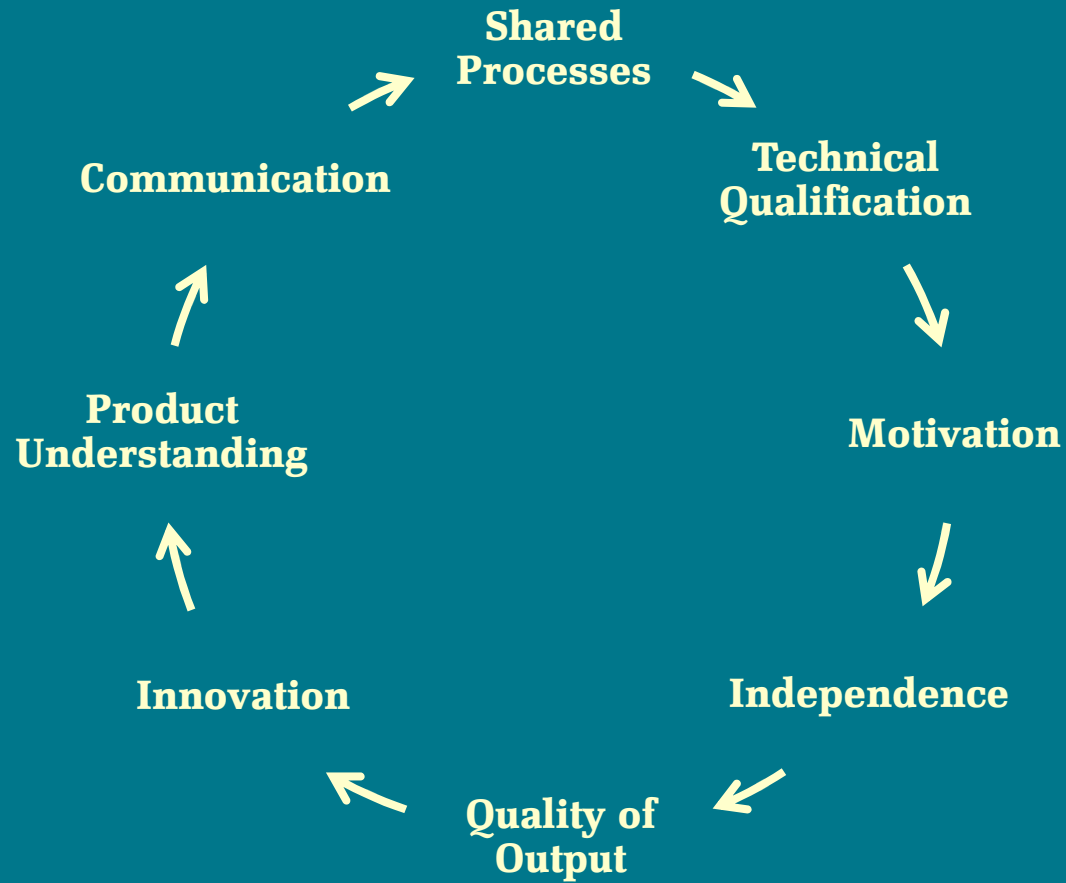

- All of the time
- Often
- A few times
- Never

6. Do you have a shared task/bug tracking system(s)?

- Yes
- No

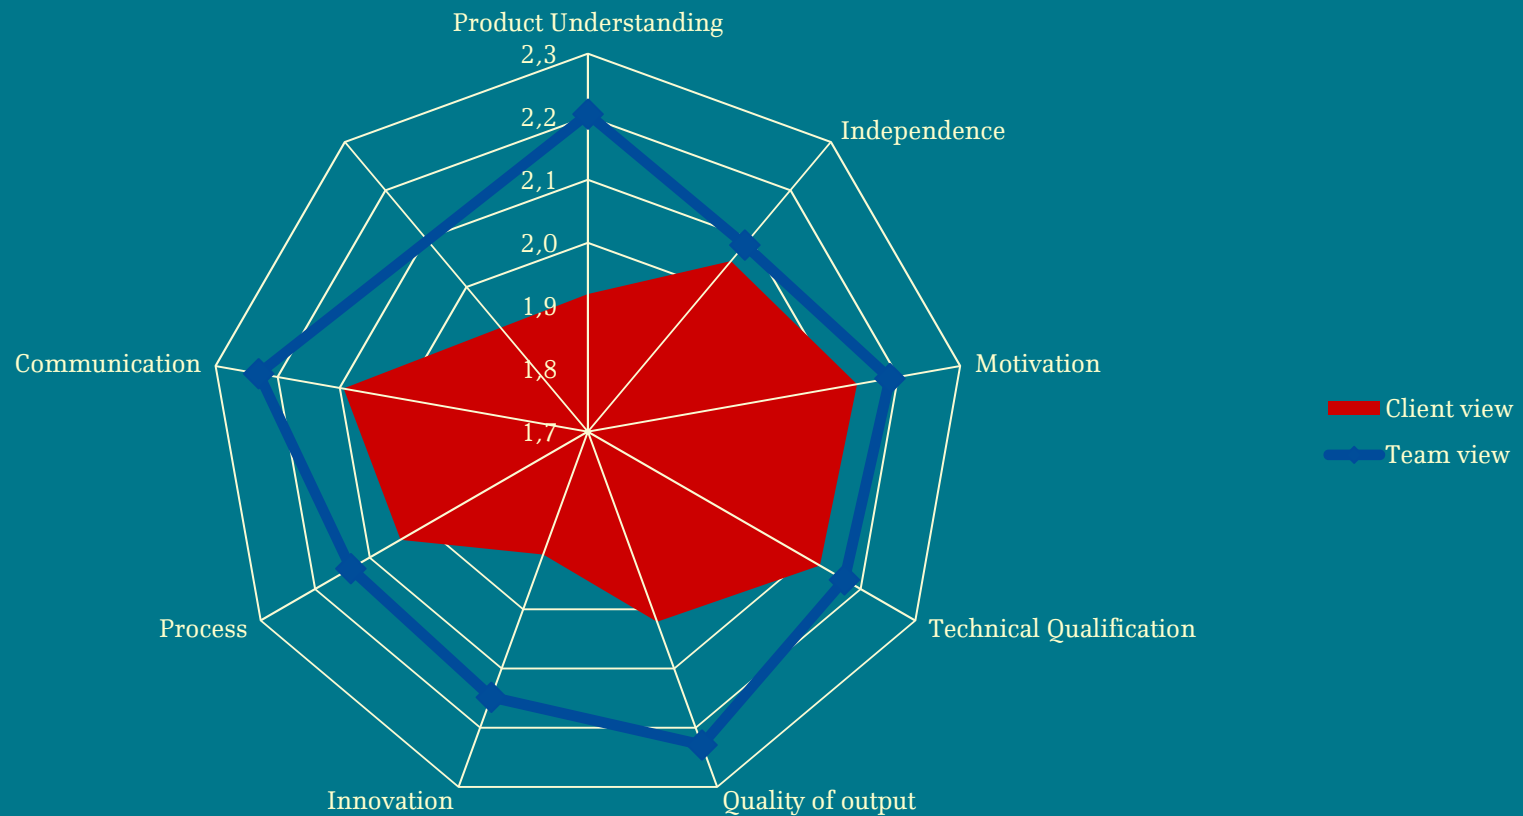

Components of success

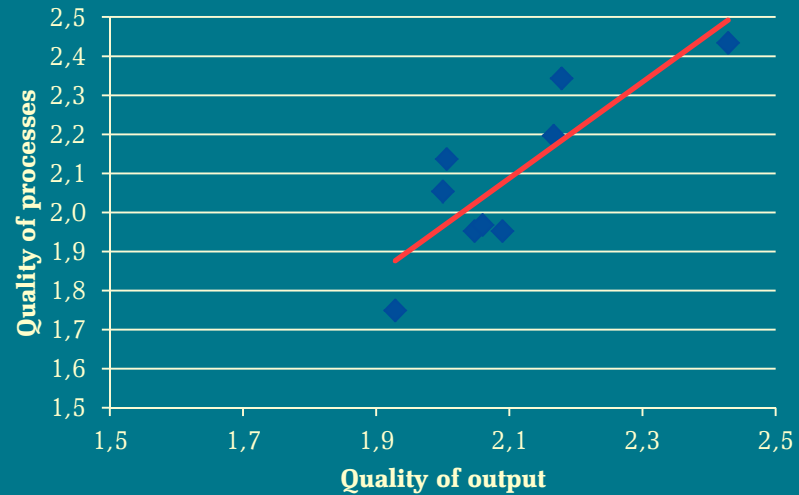

Clients and Teams see the world differently

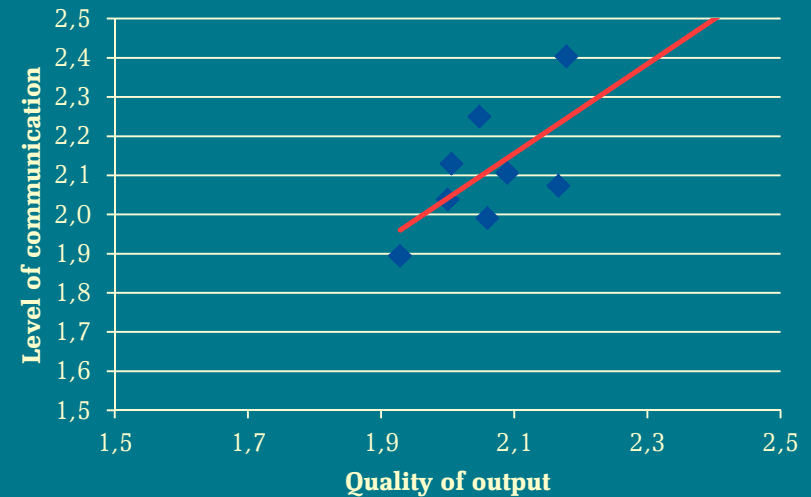

Investment pays off

Processes and Output

Communication and Output

Typical Client

Take away points

- Invest upfront
- Give feedback
- Build processes
- Spend time together
- Involve the team in your business
- Play wonderful music together